SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT, INFANTRY.

The sixty-ninth regiment, national guard, having volunteered its services, was one of the regiments selected and designated in general orders, No. 8, general headquarters, state of New York, dated adjutant-general's office, Albany, April 27, 1898, to enter the service of the United States as a volunteer regiment.

The regiment at that time consisted of ten companies, and at once commenced recruiting to fill its quota, and to organize two additional companies. Its prior history follows:

Sixty-ninth Regiment.

(Fifth Brigade.)

Armory, Third avenue and Seventh street, New York city.

The sixty-ninth regiment was organized, October 12, 1851. In 1858 it was re-organized as an artillery regiment, doing duty as infantry. It was mustered in the United States service, May 9, 1861, at Washington, D. C., to serve three months, and mustered out, August 3, 1861, during which service it took part in the actions at Blackburn's Ford and Bull Run, Va. In August, 1861, about 800 men of this regiment joined the sixty-ninth, New York volunteers, to serve three years. The regiment was again recruited and re-entered the service of the United States, May 26, 1862, to serve three months, and mustered out of service, September 3, 1862. On returning from this service the major part of the regiment again entered the service of the United States for three years as the sixty-ninth, New York national guard, artillery, or one hundred and eighty-second, New York volunteers. For the Gettysburg campaign the regiment was mustered in the service of the United States for thirty days from June 25 to July 25, 1863. July 6, 1864, it was again mustered in the United States service for three months, and mustered out, October 6, 1864. The regiment rendered the state service during the quarantine riots in 1858; the draft riots, 1863, and the quarantine disturbances in 1892. It was reduced, December 6, 1893, to a battalion of five companies, A, C, D, I and K. The battalion was on duty at Brooklyn during the motormen's strike in January, 1895. New companies were organized for the battalion as follows: Co. B, June 5, 1894; Co. G, June 10, 1895; Co. E, June 11, 1895. The battalion was reconstituted a regiment, September 4, 1895.

Special orders, No. 72, A. G. O., May 1, 1898, directed the regiment to report at foot of Thirty-fourth street, East river, New York city, at 10 a. m., on the 2d of May; there to take boat to Long Island City, and from thence to proceed via Long Island railroad to the camp at Hempstead Plains, L. I., and on its arrival to report to Major-General C. F. Roe, commanding national guard and camp. These orders were duly carried out.

Under the provisions of general orders, No. 11, A. G. O., Albany, May 3, 1898, recruiting was continued to replace the men rejected by the medical officers, and the regiment was mustered in the service of the United States as the "sixty-ninth regiment, infantry, New York volunteers," May 19, 1898.

After the ceremony of mustering on May 19th, the regiment was presented with a handsome stand of colors by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of the city of New York, the presentation address being made by Judge James Fitzgerald of New York city. The stand consisted of the national and state emblems, and the historic green flag of Ireland.

May 20th, the regiment received orders to proceed to Chickamauga, and report to General Brooke, U. S. army, and on Tuesday, May 24th, it moved, passing en-route through the streets of New York city from Thirty-fourth street ferry on the East river to Twenty-third street ferry on the North river. Embarking on Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Jersey City, the regiment started in three sections. En-route it passed through the cities of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Wheeling, Cincinnati, and Lexington.

May 27th, the regiment arrived at Chickamauga National Military Park and reported to General Brooke, and was assigned a camp site about two miles from Lytle station, on the Southern railroad, where tents were pitched the same evening. At Chickamauga Park the regiment was equipped with a wagon train, consisting of thirty wagons and one hundred and twenty-one mules, and attached to the second division, third army corps.

May 30th, orders were received from Major-General Brooke to proceed to Tampa, Florida, and there report to General Carpenter.

The regiment struck camp at Chickamauga Park, Ga., June 2d; took train in three sections at Rossville, Ga., for Tampa, Fla., where it arrived June 6th, pitching its camp at Palmetto Beach on the same day. It was assigned to the second brigade, third division, fourth army corps.

While in this camp recruiting parties were sent north, and in due time returned to the regiment with 303 recruits.

July 24th, the regiment broke camp at Tampa, and in the afternoon embarked at Ybor City en-route for Fernandina, where it arrived on the 25th, and encamped about half a mile north of the town on the 26th.

August 12th, the regiment received orders to proceed to Huntsville, Alabama, and there go into camp.

August 27th, the regiment broke camp and in the evening took train for Huntsville, Ala. The regiment was separated into two sections as it left Fernandina, but at Montgomery, Ala., the railroad company found it necessary to divide it into three sections on account of the heavy grades to be encountered. On leaving Montgomery, companies E and G occupied the first five cars of the first section and had proceeded about eight miles west of Birmingham, Ala., to a point near the town of New Castle on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, where about 5 o'clock in the afternoon the five cars above mentioned left the rails while at a high rate of speed and were dashed to pieces.

The wreck occurred in a "cut" and the cars were thrown against the side of it with such force that they shot high into the air and then turned bottom side up.

It was found on examination that Private Peter Farley, company G, had been instantly killed, and that Sergeant Frank Glennon, company G, was dying. In addition twenty-six other non-commissioned officers and privates and one civilian teamster were more or less injured.

The injured men were immediately sent back to Birmingham for treatment, and were installed at Wilson and Brown Infirmary, a private institution. Sergeant Glennon died on the train while being sent to the hospital. Fifteen of the men were found to be in such condition as to make their detention there necessary. All but three subsequently rejoined the regiment.

Considering the complete manner in which the five cars were wrecked, it is providential that the casualty did not assume greater proportions.

August 29th, the regiment reached Huntsville, and went into camp about a mile west of the town in a beautiful farming valley. The soil was a red shale and covered with a short, thick growth of grass. The encampment drained well and the location proved a healthy one. The water was particularly good, being furnished through mains from a magnificent spring, which is one of the principal attractions of that part of the state.

In November, the regiment was assigned to the second brigade, first division, fourth army corps.

January 28, 1899, the regiment left its camp near Huntsville, en-route for New York city, where, at its armory, it was mustered out of the United States service, January 31, 1899.

SEVENTY-FIRST REGIMENT, INFANTRY.

The seventy-first regiment, national guard, having volunteered its services, was one of the regiments selected and designated in general orders, No. 8, general headquarters, state of New York, dated adjutant-general's office, Albany, April 27, 1898, to enter the service of the United States as a volunteer regiment.

The regiment at the time consisted of ten companies, and at once commenced recruiting to fill its companies, and to organize two additional ones. Its previous record follows:

Seventy-first Regiment.

(Fifth Brigade.)

Armory, Thirty-fourth street and Park avenue, New York city.

The regiment was organized in August, 1852. The American Rifles, a battalion of four companies, formed the nucleus of the regiment. September 21, 1870, the thirty-seventh regiment was consolidated with the seventy-first regiment, companies E, D, H, A, G, K and B of the thirty-seventh regiment being consolidated with companies A, C, D, E, F, G and K of the seventy-first regiment, respectively. In 1861 it entered the United States service for three months, from April 21 to July 30. On May 29, 1862, it again entered the same service for three months, at the expiration of which it volunteered to remain, but was mustered out, September 2, 1862. In 1863 it was mustered in the United States service for thirty days, and served from June 17 to July 22. It performed active duty for the state in 1857, 1858, 1863, 1871, 1877, 1892 and 1895.

The regiment received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the national color.—Alexandria, Va., May 24, 1861; Aquia Creek, Va., May 31, 1861; Matthias Point, Va., June 27, 1861; Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861; Tennallytown, D. C., 1862; Washington, D. C., 1862; Gettysburg campaign, 1863; Kingston, Pa., June 26, 1863; near Harrisburg, Pa., June 29, 1863; Spanish-American war, 1898; Cuba, June, July and August, 1898; San Juan Hill, July 1, 1898; Siege of Santiago de Cuba, July 2 to 17, 1898.

On the state color.—Dead Rabbit riot, 1857; Quarantine riot, 1858; Draft riots, 1863; Orange riot, 1871; Railroad riots, 1877; Buffalo, 1892; Brooklyn, 1895.

April 29, 1898, company H, Captain Walter I. Joyce, commanding, proceeded under orders to Hempstead Plains, Long Island, to establish a camp, which was later known as "Camp Black," named in honor of the Governor, and to guard the state property rapidly accumulating there.

Special orders, No. 72, A. G. O., dated May 1, 1898, directed the seventy-first regiment to report at foot of East Twenty-third street, East river, New York city, at 10 a. m., on May 2d, and there to take boat to Long Island railroad; thence to the camp at Hempstead Plains, and on arrival to report to Major-General Charles F. Roe, commanding the national guard and camp.

The regiment assembled, May 2d, at 8 a. m., in its armory, corner Park avenue and Thirty-fourth street, and when formed, were briefly addressed by Colonel Francis V. Greene, and after prayer by the chaplain of the regiment, it proceeded to the foot of East Twenty-third street and thence to Hempstead Plains, where the regiment was given the right of line in the camp formation.

General orders, No. 11, A. G. O., ordered recruiting to be continued to replace the men rejected by the medical officers, which recruiting and examination continued uninterruptedly until the full quota was completed.

The seventy-first was the first volunteer regiment mustered into the service of the United States in the war with Spain. Captain Walter S. Schuyler, fifth United States cavalry, was the mustering officer, and the ceremony continued all the afternoon and well into the early evening. The regiment became the "seventy-first regiment, infantry, New York volunteers," May 10, 1898.

May 11th, Governor Black reviewed the troops at Camp Black and the seventy-first regiment was given the post of honor at right of line.

Major Avery D. Andrews on the evening of May 11th, brought orders to Colonel Greene from the war department to proceed south immediately.

On May 12th, arrangements to move were made until 3 p. m., when the regiment struck camp; took train at 6 o'clock and arrived at Long Island City about 10 o'clock at night. Not until 3 o'clock the following morning was the regiment transferred to the ferryboats and from them to the transports "City of Washington" and "Seneca" lying off Bedloe's Island in New York harbor.

The baggage was transferred on May 13th, from lighters to the transports, and rations loaded.

Orders were received, May 14th, to disembark and proceed south by rail. Beginning at 11 a. m., and working steadily, it was not until 10 p. m., that the regiment left Jersey City on the Pennsylvania railroad in three sections. The first was under command of Colonel Greene; the second of Major Smith and the third of Lieutenant-Colonel Downs.

With many vexatious delays and tedious traveling, the regiment arrived at Lakeland, Florida, in the early morning of May 17th, and proceeded at once to encamp on the shore of Morton Lake, about a half mile from the village and thirty miles north of Tampa. Temporarily the regiment was assigned to the second cavalry brigade, commanded by Brigadier-General Samuel B. M. Young.

Major-General Wheeler and staff visited the camp, May 24th, and inspected the regiment.

The regiment was assigned, May 25th, to the first brigade (Colonel M. A. Cochran), first division (Brigadier-General Jacob F. Kent), fifth army corps (Major-General Wm. R. Shafter).

In the early afternoon of May 28th, Colonel F. V. Greene, retired captain United States army, who had been colonel of the regiment for eight years, and whose personal value and army record were large and influential factors in the prompt enlistment of recruits, received notice by telegram of his appointment as brigadier-general, with orders to proceed at once to San Francisco, and from there to the Philippines. He left the regiment that night, taking with him the efficient adjutant, William G. Bates, who in a few days became assistant adjutant-general of General Greene's brigade. Colonel Greene's last official act was to nominate Lieutenant-Colonel Downs, to the Governor, as his successor.

Lieutenant-Colonel Wallace A. Downs received notice, May 29th, of his appointment as colonel of the regiment.

May 30th, orders were received to proceed to Tampa Heights.

After many delays the regiment arrived by rail, May 31st, at Ybor City, and late in the afternoon marched in heavy order through the sand some three miles to a very desirable camping ground.

Orders were received, June 6th, for the regiment to be ready to move on board the transport at a moment's notice.

Orders from corps headquarters were received, June 7th, to strike camp; proceed by train to Port Tampa, and there embark on transport. Tents were struck at 7 p. m., and all baggage, ammunition and rations taken to depot at Ybor City, and loaded on baggage train. Not until 1:30 a. m., was the regiment formed and marched out of camp.

All was not in readiness, although everyone worked all night, to proceed from Ybor City until 6 o'clock in the morning of June 8th, the trains arriving at Port Tampa about two hours later after considerable difficulty. The transport "Vigilancia" was assigned to the regiment and at 3:30 o'clock p. m., the whole command having stood in the sand about the tracks since morning, sweltering in the extraordinary heat, began to board the vessel.

The work of loading the baggage and horses being completed, the "Vigilancia" moved down the stream, June 9th, and there remained at anchor until June 14th, at 5:45 o'clock p. m., when the entire fleet of transports sailed for Cuba. The fleet duly convoyed, sailed slowly over comparatively smooth seas, arriving at the mouth of the harbor off Santiago de Cuba on the 20th, of June. During the voyage the health of the men was excellent. The trip was generally without incidents worthy of record.

About 5 o'clock p. m., June 23d, General Shafter standing on the bridge of the "Segurança," which came alongside the "Vigilancia," gave through the megaphone personal orders to Colonel Downs that the regiment should proceed at once to disembark and land at Siboney, each man to be supplied with shelter tent, poncho, three days' rations and one hundred rounds of ammunition. The work began at once; continued through the night and was not completed until 5 o'clock the next morning, Colonel Downs with his staff being the last to land. Shelter tents had not been provided for the officers and the wall tents were not taken from the transports.

After breakfast on the shore, June 24th, the regiment proceeded to camp in the round house about half a mile west of the landing place, belonging to the Juragua Iron Company.

Scarcely had the regiment reached the spot and began to make ready the temporary encampment, when orders came for the seventy-first to proceed at once along the trail and over the summit of the mountains skirting the shore to reinforce the first volunteer cavalry, which had already encountered the enemy. At 10 o'clock the regiment marched four miles toward Las Guasimas, where it was halted and then ordered to return to Siboney, the fight at Las Guasimas having ended. The enemy had been routed and compelled to retire. The seventy-first regiment was first in reserve in the battle of Las Guasimas.

Orders were received, June 26th, for the regiment to move to the front on the following morning. All preparations were made, and so that the men could march, and the orders for them to carry two hundred rounds of ammunition be obeyed (the Springfield belts holding but one hundred), the horses of the field and staff officers carried strapped on their backs the extra ammunition, and the officers marched with the men.

The regiment broke camp, June 27th, at 4 o'clock a. m., and proceeded toward Santiago. On the way out of Siboney it joined the sixth and sixteenth regiments of regulars, which composed the first brigade. Colonel Cochran having been retired, and Brigadier-General Hawkins being in command, the regiment marched about seven miles on the main road leading to Santiago, where it finally went into a camp in an open field at a point called Sevilla, about five miles from Santiago. For three days great difficulty was experienced getting rations and ammunition transported from Siboney, the frequent and heavy rains making roads almost impassable.

An order was received, June 30th, about 5 p. m., for the regiment to move to the front the following morning at 10 a. m. Lieutenant Ord, brigade quartermaster, sent to the camp ammunition and rations, which were at once distributed to the men.

The regiment broke camp, July 1st, at 3:30 o'clock in the morning, and proceeded toward Santiago; the field and staff officers mounted. Having marched about two miles the regiment was turned into a field at the left and formed into columns of masses, joining the sixth and the sixteenth regiments. After resting about half an hour, the first brigade, led by General Hawkins, proceeded toward Santiago.

At El Poso, some mile and a half along the road, the regiment was halted and detained by large numbers of Cuban soldiers rushing down the hill and blocking the road. They had been fired upon when Grimes' battery at the top of the hill had engaged the enemy entrenched in front of Santiago. A little further along the road, the regiment was again halted to allow the cavalry brigade to pass, and then the regiment resumed its march. Scarcely having done so, it came within the zone of the enemy's fire, where it remained for a full half hour. Marching fours front through a thick jungle, with shells bursting over them, bullets whizzing about them, and occasionally a sharpshooter's unmistakable fire in the midst of them; some were killed and several wounded while thus going to a point where General Kent ordered Colonel Downs to turn his regiment to the left, and proceed to the ford of a stream, and there deploy it.

During the day the regiment participated in the capture of San Juan Hill. At a critical time Major Keck led the third battalion forward and as they moved toward San Juan Hill, Major Wells followed with the second and part of the first battalions. On crossing the stream at the foot of the hill Major Wells assumed command, and appointed Captain Linson acting major of the first battalion, and Captain Goldsborough acting major of the second battalion, and all moved forward and took part in the capture of the block house. Captain Rafferty, with company F, having previously obtained permission of the colonel of the regiment to go forward, had already ascended the hill. The enemy used smokeless powder, and so did the regulars.

The seventy-first regiment had Springfield rifles and did not have smokeless powder. The firing brought at once upon the men in the trenches the storm of the enemy's fire, and they were soon ordered not to fire unless they could procure Mauser rifles. This not a few did; taking those they could find which wounded or dead men could no longer use. During the night the regiment worked continuously digging trenches and building breastworks preparatory for the work of the following day.

Firing opened, July 2d, at dawn; the battle continuing through the day. During all this time the regiment held its position in the trenches. The first and second battalions were at the right of the famous San Juan block house, and the latter was held as a support to the twenty-fourth United States infantry, which occupied the trenches on the left of the block house.

At night a severe attack was made upon the trenches of the seventy-first by the Spaniards. During the attack the regiment held its position in the trenches, and kept up continuous firing for fully an hour and a half.

Fighting commenced at dawn, July 3d, and continued until noon, when orders were given to "cease firing," and a flag of truce was sent out by the corps commander. The regiment continued to occupy its position in the trenches on San Juan Hill, at the right of the block house, until Tuesday, July 5th, when it was withdrawn and sent to a position on the left, to be in closer touch with the other regiments of the first brigade.

Orders were received from division headquarters, July 8th, for the regiment to report to General Lawton at daylight the following morning.

The regiment broke camp, July 9th, at 2:30 a. m.; marched four miles to the northward, and reported as ordered. It was assigned at once to a position in the trenches; the first battalion, occupying those vacated by the fourth United States infantry, who occupied those vacated by General Garcia's troops, and the third those vacated by the second Massachusetts volunteers.

The regiment did desultory firing in the trenches during July 10th and 11th, and subsequently between the times flags of truce were flying and the process of negotiations between the generals of the opposing forces.

The regiment remained until August 8th, in the position assigned them by General Lawton, merely moving and encamping as best it could with insufficient shelter tents back of the trenches and occupying two hills in the valley, between which ran a trail from El Caney road to Santiago northward through all the camp, for a distance of four miles.

Severe and extended sickness pervaded the regiment the moment the enemy surrendered. Water was a full mile and a half distant and had to be transported in canteens. Daily rains and wholly insufficient shelter, with no variety of food, and the inadequate facilities for cooking which were provided, combined to make the life of the regiment excessively hard to endure.

Orders came, August 8th, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the second battalion, together with companies B and L of the third battalion, to proceed to Santiago and board the transport "La Grande Duchesse" at 4 o'clock, and in a drenching rain the troops marched three miles into Santiago.

Not until August 10th, was "La Grande Duchesse" able to get under way; her machinery being out of order, and her steering gear unable to work. The balance of the regiment left camp on the morning of the 10th of August, marching to Santiago, where the first battalion boarded the auxiliary cruiser "St. Paul," and companies E and K the auxiliary cruiser "St. Louis." The regiment was by these vessels transported to Montauk Point, L. I., where "La Grande Duchesse" was quarantined for three days; yellow fever having appeared during the voyage and several victims having died and been buried at sea.

On August 19th, the last of the companies disembarked. Each detachment was kept in a detention camp at Montauk Point for five days before it was finally transferred to the permanent camp, at the extreme westerly end of the reservation.

Orders were received, August 26th, from General Wheeler for the regiment to prepare to proceed to its home station, New York city, and there to be furloughed for a period of sixty days.

In the order appeared these words: "Pursuant to the direction of the President you will proceed to your homes and friends to receive the welcome which Americans have to accord to returning heroes who have fought, endured and suffered for the sake of their country, its honor and its prestige. This short but severe campaign has made ours among the great countries of the earth and you have done your full part in the great accomplishment."

The regiment broke camp at Montauk Point, August 29th, at 6 o'clock a. m., and proceeded by rail to Long Island City; thence by ferry to New York city, where it landed at South ferry and proceeded up Broadway in cable cars and carriages to Waverly place, where the regiment duly formed for parade to its armory. It was escorted from this point by the veteran association of the seventy-first regiment and Lafayette post, G. A. R., together with the officers of the one hundred and seventy-first regiment, N. G., N. Y., and reached the armory at Thirty-fourth street and Park avenue at 4:30 o'clock p. m. A remarkable ovation and demonstration of affectionate approval was received from thousands along the route of march.

After prayer by the chaplain, and a few words from the colonel, the regiment was at once dismissed and furloughed for sixty days.

The regiment assembled, October 27th, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., and work commenced preparatory to mustering it out of the United States service. This work was completed under the direction of Captain Brett, first United States cavalry, and the regiment was finally mustered out, November 15, 1898.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIRST REGIMENT, INFANTRY.

Under the provisions of general orders, No. 8, general headquarters, state of New York, adjutant-general's office, June 27, 1898, this regiment was organized at the armory of the twelfth regiment, national guard, New York city, and recruited in that city and Brooklyn.

Recruiting commenced about July 10th, preference being given to members of the national guard.

Companies A, C and I were mustered in July 16th; companies D and E, July 17th; companies G and H, July 18th; company F, July 21st; companies K and M, July 22d; company L, July 23d, and company B, July 26, 1898.

As soon after muster-in as practicable, companies were sent to and the whole regiment assembled at Camp Black, Long Island.

September 9th, the regiment left Camp Black, and proceeded to Camp Meade, via Long Island railroad to Long Island City, by ferry from Long Island City to Jersey City, via Central Railroad of New Jersey, and Philadelphia & Reading railroad to Middletown, Pa., where it arrived about daylight.

September 10th, breakfasted and marched two and one-half miles to camp near High Spire, Pa., previously occupied by the sixth Pennsylvania regiment. The third battalion occupied four separate company camps and performed three weeks provost duties.

A picked battalion, under the command of Colonel Hubbell, attended the peace celebration at Philadelphia, Pa.

November 15th, the regiment proceeded via Baltimore, Washington & Southern railroad to Greenville, S. C., where it was assigned to the second brigade, second division, second army corps, the camp of all the troops being known as "Camp Wetherill."

During the stay of the regiment at this point Lieutenant-Colonel Edmund P. Cottle was detailed as provost marshal at Greenville. He performed his duties in such a manner that he received the full appreciation and commendation of the commander of the division in an official communication, and the citizens of Greenville presented him with a sword and belt as a testimonial of the valuable service rendered by him.

Before leaving Camp Meade the regiment received orders assigning it to duty near Havana, Cuba, and in February, 1899, it was ordered to Augusta, Ga. These orders, however, were not carried out.

The regiment was mustered out at Greenville, S. C., April 3, 1899.

The following extract from a report of inspection made in March, 1899, bears on the condition and efficiency of the regiment:

"I had an ample opportunity to observe the regiment at drills and ceremonies, as well as the conduct of the men in a most trying and disagreeable camp, and it has been my privilege during my tour as mustering officer to have the opportunity of observing the general conduct of the men, and the drill and efficiency of the entire first and second brigades, of the second division of the second army corps, and my opinion is, that the two hundred and first New York volunteer infantry far excelled the other regiments of those brigades in general efficiency and discipline. This can be due to only one cause, and that, the excellent administration of Colonel Hubbell, and the support he received from his competent and zealous officers. The officers treated the enlisted men, as men and soldiers, and considering the enlisted strength of the regiment was recruited from the streets of New York city, and possessed every attribute that tends toward insubordination and mutinous conduct, I was never for a time led to believe that the regiment was other than a well disciplined organization. The greatest pleasure to me was to observe the strong affection and respect that the officers had for their colonel, and this was shared in by the enlisted men; the latter also showed great respect for their company officers. Familiarity between officers and men was entirely absent. Regimental feeling and pride was evident at all times. It would be useless to designate by name any officer who possessed especial fitness for the profession of arms, for all seemed to perform their duty in a zealous and efficient manner, and reflected credit on the state from whence they come.
